Marcy Wiemers, MD, receives exemplary teaching award

GALVESTON, TEXAS — Marcy Wiemers, MD, of San Antonio, Texas, was awarded the Full-time Faculty Exemplary Teaching Award by the Texas Academy of Family Physicians during the organization's 2017 Annual Session and Primary Care Summit in Galveston on Nov. 11. This award honors individuals with outstanding teaching skills and those who have developed and implemented innovative teaching models.

Wiemers is the full-time family medicine residency associate program director and assistant clinical professor at UT Health San Antonio.

She's received several recognitions and awards for her work as a professor, physician, and scholar, including the Corpus Christi Family Medicine Residency Program's Family Medicine Faculty Teaching Award in both 2008 and 2012 and UT Health San Antonio's Family and Community Medicine Education Development Award.

Wiemers received a Bachelor of Science degree and her medical doctorate from Texas A&M University. She completed her family medicine residency and an obstetrics fellowship with Christus Family Medicine Residency Program.

Family physicians like Wiemers are qualified to work in all major medical areas and are trained to treat more than 90 percent of all cases they encounter. Family physicians care for patients of all ages.

The Texas Academy of Family Physicians is the premier membership organization dedicated to uniting the family doctors of Texas through advocacy, education and member services, and empowering them to provide a medical home for patients of all ages. It has 32 local chapters and is a chapter of the American Academy of Family Physicians. Visit www.tafp.org for more information.
